It's CD Week

Civil Defense on a nationwide scale started last Sunday and ends Saturday. But the week virtually went unnoticed in Campbell. Not quite but almost.

Although no definite program was planned for Campbell, the local post office trucks, under a directive of the Postmaster General, sported signs on each side, "This Is A Unit of Your Civil Defense".

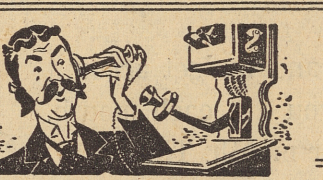
The four local postal vehicles were part of the 25,000 post office department trucks which were authorized by the Postmaster General to be used for emergency civil defense purposes should a disaster strike.

County Planners Okay Fifth High School Site

Approval has been given the Campbell Union High School District by the County Planning Commission for a 55-acre high school site on the east side of the San Jose-Los Gatos Road north of Dutard Ave. This site marks the fifth for the district with two plants now operating.

The district has been allotted $536,550 under the state aid program for site purchase and by 1960 plans to construct facilities for 400 students and for 1500 within five years.

The third site purchased by the district is located between Harriet and Lovell in the San Tomas area and the fourth is off Blackford at Boynton in the northwest sector.



On The Line in Campbell

Elmer M. D'Angelo, a civil engineer and long-time associated with Mark Thomas, Campbell city engineer, has formed a partnership with Patrick J. Creegan, formerly with Bechtel Corp. for the general practice of civil engineering. Under the firm name of Creegan and D'Angelo, the firm has opened offices at 14455 Big Basin Way, Saratoga, Calif.

With his wife, Joan, Schenk attended the company's Leading Producer's convention in Mexico City this past week.

The traditional scratchy pens, long associated with the American post offices, is a thing of the past at least as far as the Campbell post office is concerned. Postmaster Ira Grim this week reported that new ball-point pens are now available in the lobby of the local office. The new pens are attached by chains to the desks, a precaution that was unnecessary for the scratchy straight point jobs.

Two former Campbell High students entering the freshman class at Clarmont Men's College were among the 20 who have been awarded honors-at-entrance, according to F. The State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control recently overruled the protest of the Moreland Elementary School District in the granting of an off-sale beer and wine license to the Hoilday Market in the Holiday Shopping Center at Payne and Saratoga avenues. The department noted that few children pass by the market on the way to the school which is only about 300 feet from the market. The market owners, George H. McKenzie, George W. DeLap and Robert L. Smith were represented by Arvin Robb, San Jose attorney at the hearing.

Chief Warns That School Days Mean Added Hazards

With the Campbell schools opening in full force next Monday, Chief of Police Robert Locke this week cautioned adults and youngsters alike on the importance of safe driving.

He warned the youngsters who ride bicycles to school that they must obey traffic laws as well as motorists. He said that all bikes used in the city must be licensed and he issued a special warning against riding double.

The chief also cautioned motorists to drive carefully especially near the schools where thousands of local youngsters will be converging starting next week.

Locke also reminded both parents and children that Campbell has a curfew ordinance which prohibits youngsters under 18 to be on the streets except when accompanied by adults after 10:30 p.m. any night except Friday and Saturday when the time limit is 12:30 a.m.

Local Man Helps In Building Home From Wheel Chair

By Alys Riley

When a man who has been struck down by life can come up from the struggle with courage, optimism and determination to succeed, it's a heart-warming story. Ed Bealer, local insurance agent, who has been confined to a wheel chair following an automobile accident 20 years ago, looks this week upon one of his biggest accomplishments, completion of a new home which he and his wife helped design and build.

While watching furniture being moved in their new home, Ed's face was wreathed in a happy smile when he said, "My wife and three children are very happy. This is our new real home."

Tackles Many Jobs

Although he lost the use of his legs, Ed has overcome this handicap to an astonishing degree in the way he gets around with the aid of his wheel chair and his car equipped with hand controls.

The way Ed tackled many jobs and activities in his quest for a vocation and way of life, bears out the theory that a person is only handicapped by his state of mind and attitude. Despite many setbacks over the past 20 years, he continued undaunted to make a place for himself in the business world, as well as in his personal life, and this year Ed has started to see the culmination of his dreams.

When he married Mrs. Bobbie Hartsell about a year and a half ago, her devotion and encouragement, as well as that of her three children, Pat, 14; Gary 12; and Gayle, 4, brought new meaning to his life and a determination to provide a comfortable home for his family.

Just about a year ago, Ed and Bobbie decided to build a home, and after doing much of the designing and planning themselves, set out to do much of the actual building themselves, and, although Bobbie, too, has a full-time job she managed to find time to help in many phases of building.

Starts With Roof

Reversing the usual procedure in building, Ed started with the roof, After buying a band saw and setting it up at his father's Quito Road place, he got redwood logs, and with the help of his father, Herman Bealer, proceeded to saw the logs and split them into shakes which now make the unusually attractive roof for his home, located on Freda Court in Campbell. Ed did a lot of the work himself, including working on studdings and cement forms, crawling down on his hands and knees to get around. From his wheel chair he pounded nails and applied the prime coat of paint as far as he could reach.

Although his father gave him the most help, when his many friends learned of his undertaking, they came forward with offers of assistance and pitched in during their spare time. Two of his coworkers, Jack Sandoval and Al Callichio, from a Los Gatos electronics plant volunteered and gave many of their free hours to help get the house built. Another friend, George Silvers, local carpenter, donated his time when needed. Bill Koretzer, Campbell contractor, a neighbor, also offered freely of his help, and with his tractor, levelled the lot before building was begun.

Hand-Painted Lanscape

Unusual and attractive feature in the Bealer family's home is the hand-painted landscape above the curved fireplace in the living room. Glenn Swingle, retired local house painter, used an ordinary paint brush and paint when he did the beautiful winter scene. Other artistic decorative features in the home were also the work of the talented painter.

Although the building of a house would seem to be a big enough undertaking to most people, Ed also started his insurance agency on a full-time scale shortly before he started on the house. For five years he worked as a filament expert in a Los Gatos electronics firm and spent his days to building up his insurance business in his home, and about a year ago last May, quit his job at the electronics plant to devote his full time to building up his agency and opened an office at 21 South Fourth St. in Campbell, and despite the many hours spent on constructing his home, his agency has grown far beyond his expectations in the comparatively short time.

Ed's couagre and optimism are now taken for granted by his family and many friends, but he relates that the toughest struggle of all during those early years was to face the outside world from a wheel chair.

Born in Wisconsin

Born and raised on a farm in Wisconsin, he came to California in 1933 at the age of 16 and lived with relatives in Los Gatos, where he was employed. Three years later, he drove back to Wisconsin to visit his family, and on September 3, 1936, shortly after his arrival, suffered a broken back in an automobile accident. His first stay in the hospital lasted three months and shortly afterwards, was back for another four months, when doctors gave him three to four years in the most to live.

When his doctor told him he he would have to live in a milder climate, Ed's parents sold their farm and came to California with him. The three years following his accident were dark years when he never left his home, unable to face the world from his wheel chair, but it was through the persistent encouragement of his brother John, Ed finally and reluctantly agreed to accompany him to a movie, although he closed his eyes while out in public to avoid seeing people.

Painful as it was, Ed's first pub-

City Planners Worry Over Size of Yards

What should be the minimum size of a front yard?

This is just one of the many involved questions confronting the City Planning Commission in the problem of deciding just how the future width of Winchester Road and Campbell Ave. will affect the present property owners on the two streets and the City's finances.

Perplexed City Planners last Thursday night, faced with the unpopular but neccessary task of adopting official plan lines for both Winchester Road and Campbell Ave., sent both plans back to the City engineer for further study.

New Developments

"New economic developments" prompted this action by the Planners, who for the second time since the plan lines had first been presented to them by the city engineer's office, continued the public hearing on the matter.

The action of the Planning Commission came after the opinion of City Attorney Joseph Bonacina was read by Nestor Barrett, planning consultant. Bonacina had been asked to rule on setback problem after interested residents at the first meeting wanted to know what the City was going to about the situation that would result after the land needed for widening the street was taken from their properties.

In many cases, it was pointed out, their houses would be less than the 25 feet from the street, required by city ordinance, Would the City move the houses back then?

Inverse condemnation

In his written opinion, Bonacina explained that in effect the City's action in taking the needed property was "inverse condemnation" of residential properties but that the present ordinance requiring the 25-foot setback was equally as binding on a city as on its citizens.

The attorney suggested two solutions to the problem (1) that the Commission grant blanket front yard variances or (2) that the present zoning ordinance be amended so that front yard requirements may be reduced in such cases.

It was this reduction in front yard requirements as to what yard space would be logical and practical that caused the Planners to decide to send the plans to the engineer so that a more complete study could be made of the economic factors involved. Some of the questions the Planners wanted answered: What houses would have to be moved and if there was room enough for them to be set back on the lots? What properties would have to be purchased outright? How small would a front yard have to be before it would work a hardship on the residents? The Commissioners felt that it was necessary to learn something about the cost factor of the undertaking before an intelligent decision could be made of what the official plan lines of the streets should be.

Under the plan presented by the engineers, the land needed to widen the streets would come off both sides of the streets equally..

Nothing on the Tree

No discussion was held by the Planners and no report was made by Barrett on the future of the famous but controversial Roosevelt Redwood. The trees destiny to a large extent is of necessity tied up with the official plan-lines. The tree now stands in the parking lot of the filling station at Winchester Road and Campbell Ave., but is doomed under almost any plan to widen Winchester Road.

Commission Finds Local Firm Okay In Zone Dispute

City Planners agreed with the city building inspector last Thursday night that the G & P Equipment Rental Co., 437 N. San Jose-Los Gatos Road, was not violating any zoning ordinance.

W. L. (Bud) Morser, city building inspector had been requested by the Planning Commission to investigate an alleged violation of the firm which is now located in a light manufacturing zone but is in the process of being changed to commercial.

Morser pointed out that the equipment rental firm was operating inside the building as required under the M-1 zone when there is no fence around the property. If a wall or fence enclosed the operation, equipment could be stored outside. Under the commercial

You Can Register Up to Midnight

Mayor John M. Chargin this week joined civic leaders throughout the country in urging those residents who have not registered to vote in the November election to do so before midnight tonight.

"Your right to vote is one of your most precious possessions," the mayor emphasized, "and one should not lose this privilege simply by not bothering to take the time to register.

"During a presidential election such as this," he added, "your vote takes on added significance."

Voters in the Campbell area may register up to midnight at the Campbell Fire Station. Fred Jones of the Campbell Fire Department will be available until that time.

All Schools in Area Start Fall Term with Record Enrollments

All school-age children in the Campbell area will be back in classes again next Monday, September 17, as the Campbell and Camden High Schools, Campbell Union and Moreland elementary schools open their doors for the fall term. Record enrollments are expected in all the schools.

The three schools in the Cambrian District opened last Monday with an attendance of 2100 with another 250 to 300 expected during the year, according to Delos M. Bagby, district superintendent. Cambrian School had 1000, Steindorf 760 and Bagby 351.

This week the district also completed negotiations for the purchase of a fifth school site on Union Ave. and district officials are searching for a sixth location. Farnham School, the district's fourth school will be opened during the year, the superintendent reports, with Albert Vatuone as principal.

St. Lucy's Catholic School opened on Tuesday of this week with enrollment just under 300, Sister Mary Florence, principal reports. The seventh grade has been added this year and the school is now operating at full capacity. Next year the school will have its full eihgt grades and will have the first graduating class in the following June.

The Seventh Day Adventist School on W. Rincon Ave. opened on September 4 with 65 enrolled, Earl McPhee, principal reports. A use permit has been granted the school by the Planning Commission for the erection of a one-room structure and construction will start next week with completion in two weeks.

An enrollment of 5700 is expected in the ten elementary schools of the Campbell Union District when the bells sound next Monday while 3000 high school students are anticipated in the two high schools Campbell and Camden. Camden with its new junior class will have 1100 with the balance in Campbell.

Moreland School anticipates more than 1500 to be in class next Monday.

City Council Adopts Sales Tax Ordinance

Unable to wait any longer for the hoped for adoption of the much maligned countywide one-cent sales tax, Campbell's City Council on Monday night passed through the first reading of a strictly local sales tax ordinance that will go into effect in this city on October 1. The entire revenue from the one penny levy will go into the city's coffers.

If the countywide uniform tax had been adopted, the county would take 9 per cent of the revenue out of which it would pay the collection cost. Collection of the tax would be handled by the State. However, for the county plan to go into effect, all 14 cities in the county had to agree to the proposal.

Tte City of Milpitas, apparently unmindful of the needs of its sister cities, refused to go along and thus those cities in a less fortunate financial position and needing the sales tax revenue, have been forced to adopt their own sales tax plans and set up their own collection system.

Local city officials estimate that the one-penny tax will bring in about $34,000 to the City and that amount has already been budgeted for the fiscal year thus necessitating the tax becoming effective on October 1 so that the income can begin in the last quarter of the year.

Councilmen indicated, however, that in the event a countywide tax was adopted, they will amend the ordinance to allow for the uniform plan. It is estimated that cost for collection under the countywide system would approximate 1.7 per cent thus allowing the county 7.3 per cent of the revenue.

The advantages of tying in with the State set-up have not been overlooked by city officials who will be forced to establish their own machinery for collection.

City Opens Bids To Widen Street On September 24

Bids will be opened on September 24 for the Hamilton Ave. widening job and work should start on the resurfacing of Winchester Road in six weeks, Mark Thomas, city engineer reported to the City Council Monday night.

Thomas was urged by all three councilmen present, Mayor John M. Chargin, Myron Fairchild and Charles Rose to speed up the work on Winchester Road. Not only was the road becoming dangerous, they told the engineer, because of its present condition but some motorists had reported broken springs to their cars resulting from the washboard effect of the street. Councilman Rose said he estimated he receives 20 or 30 calls daily from irate citizens.

Bill Harrison, local real estate agent, appealed to the Council to do something about the street's condition immediately even a temporary measure. He said that some customers had refused to come to his office until the road was fixed. The Council directed LeRoy Black, street superintendent, to take what measures he could to help the situation until the major resurfacing job was underway.

Harrison also made two other requests, both of which were referred to the traffic engineer and chief of police for a future report. He asked that a tree and mail box now located at the southwest corner of Sunnyside and Winchester be removed. He said they constituted a traffic hazard. He also asked that cross-walks be placed on Winchester Road at Sanford and Rincon. He was told that traffic experts apparently frowned on cross-walks in the middle of the block but that the traffic engineer would make a report on the situation. Harrison said that there must be considerable jaywalking going on at the present time creating a grave traffic hazard.

City Engineer Thomas said that the resurfacing of Winchester Road was estimated to cost approximately $16,000 and he hoped that it would be completed before the rainy season commences. He added that the Hamilton Ave. widening job would take about nine months to complete and that details that had previously kept contractors from bidding on the job had been worked out. No bids were received when the Council first called for them several weeks ago.

Building Service Center to Open

Something new in the way of services to home-owners and potential builders in this area is being offered in the establishment of The Building Center at Casey Road and Winchester Road in the former Campbell Lumber Co. plant.

Joe Martin, well known local contractor is now leasing office and yard space to sub-contractors of the various crafts that make up the building industry.

Martin's plans call for a one-stop service for all building trades and will include facilities for the purchase, sale and financing of homes.

A number of sub-contractors have already signed leases for space and eventually it is planned to have the trades represented from plumbers and electricians to to floor and roof men.

Among those who have joined the enterprise, according to Martin, are Harley Beatty, cement contractor; Lanoie Plumbing, Pete Raich, sheet rock contractor; Don Ahrens, painting contractor and the Building Center Realty .

lic appearance in a wheel chair proved to be the happy turning point in his life, and from then on he gradually became interested in finding work he could do and taking part in other activities.

His first work was making wire parts for gopher traps. Not satisfied that he was using all his abilities, he enrolled in the State rehabilitation program, where he learned horology, the skill of watchmaking. His chain of endeavors continued to other occupations including many jobs, from selling brushes to managing a cleaning business.

During World War II, Ed became an electronics filament expert in the process of making vacuum tubes for defense. Except for a few years when the electronics plant was closed down, Ed continued the work until May 1955, when he left to devote his full time to his insurance agency. It wasn't long after he started that Ed realized he had at last found the kind of work he was happy in and it was then he started his agency on a small scale in his home, while working nights in the plant. He had at last found his groove in the business world.

It wasn't all worg and no play for Ed over the years. Shortly after emerging from his seclusion, he became interested in the Junior League baseball team in Los Gatos, where he was living at the time, and took over managing of the team and announcing games—a decided contrast to his fears of crowds such a short time before. Climaxing each season, Ed took his boys to see a big game at Seal's Stadium and each year, treated his boys to a barbecue.

Ed continued working with the boys for three years and found his time spent with them very gratifying as he states that all the boys who participated in the club, have since grown up to be fine men, most of them married now, with families of their own. Pete Denevi, Los Gatos High School football coach was one of his boys.

Plays Ball

Now that he has a family of his own, Ed often manages to take time off to play ball with the youngsters and occasionally take them fishing.

Having his car equipped with hand controls, proved to be one of his greatest aids in getting around without assistance from anyone. The casual and smooth manner in which he lifts himself out of his wheel chair onto the car seat, folds up the wheel chair and lifts it into the car after him, belies his handicap.

Ed was in Los Angeles when he first acquired a car equipped with hand controls and before applying for his drivers' license, Ed studied the manual for driving hand-controlled cars so thoroughly that he was able to smoothly drive his car for the first time through the heaviest Los Angeles traffic to the Department of Motor Vehicles office for his driver's test. During the test, he got along so well that the examiner remarked, "Any handicap you may have, you will overcome with driving." Not long after that, Ed took off on an extensive motor trip through Texas, where he visited his brother, John, who gave him so much encouragement, then up to Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota, a total of 10,000 miles of driving unassisted.

Far from being bitter about his experience, Ed feels that it all happened for the best. Deeply religious, he believes that God chose this way to make him see the kindness and understanding in people, which were so richly shown to him during his darkest hours, and brought him the realization everyone at one time or other is beset with seemingly unsurmountable problems.

His new-found sympathy and understanding of his fellow men instilled in him a deep desire to extend to others the help and kindness shown him.

William McLaren Claimed by Death

William McLaren, 79, well known in Campbell, died at the Masonic Home in Decoto on September 11th. Born in San Francisco, he made that city his home until coming to Campbell to retire about ten years ago. Most of his active career was spent as a shoe salesman covering much of the west coast.

Mr. and Mrs. McLaren lived on Sunny Oaks until her death in 1953, after which he moved to Sunnyside Avenue. With declining health he entered the Masonic Home a few months ago. He is survived by his sister, Mrs. Belle Gurney of San Francisco, and a niece, Mrs. Bernyce Blazek of the same city.

An ardent golfer, Mr. McLaren was a member of Charity Lodge, F & A M, Eastern Star, Orchard City Grange, and the Congregational Church of Campbell. He will be missed by many in this city where he made his home in retirement.

Funeral services will be held at the Pratt-Flierl Mortuary in Hayward Thursday, September 13th, with Dr. Corwin H. Olds of the Congregational Church and representatives of Charity Lodge officiating.

County Fair Sets New Attendance Mark as Gates Swing Open Monday

Santa Clara County's 12th annual County Fair got off to a booming start Monday evening with a record-breaking crowd of 14,429 persons passing beneath the Fair's new golden archway. The fair will close this Sunday.

Balmy weather and a glamorous display of the county's agricultural wealth along with a vast array of its products combined to give the Fair a sendoff that assures the highest attendance since it started in 1941, according to William A. Straub, manager.

Festivities started with crowning of Donna Henry as Fair Queen by State Senator John F. Thompson. Junior Queen, Sue Rae Taylor, and Junior King, Philip Urata also received their crowns.

From the huge industrial-commercial tent through a glamorous "Flower Lover's Lane" colorful Exposition Hall with its thousands of horticultural displays and handicraft exhibits, the vast array of horses, cattle, sheep, swine, chickens and other fowl, horses and general exhibit areas, firt nighters found themselves entranced with the Fair's attractions.

A. L. Christopher, president of Santa Clara County Fair Association, said in opening ceremonies, "We expect to play host this year to more than 250,000 visitors to set a new record for attendance. The 1956 Fair reflects growth of the county's industry and population and yet indicates without question that agirculture still is a vital part of our economy. For the thousands of new residents in our county, the Fair is proving to be a wonderful introduction to their new home.'

As the Fair opened, judges had already done much toward making awards to winners, but faced long hours of work over several days as additional divisions are covered. This year winners will share more than $75,000 in prize money which comes from a State levy on horse racing.

While returns were still being tabulated, Fair officials expect final figures will exceed 1,000 youngsters in Junior Division which covers Future Farmer, 4-H and Future Homemaker organizations, and 2,500 adults. "There is almost no limit to size and scope of exhibits," Straub said. "Here's everything from a pet duck to large-scale agricultural projects, hobbies, handcraft and canned fruit

Building Permits Drop in August

Campbell for August recorded one of its poorest months as far as building permits were concerned, according to the office of the building inspector. Only $11,452 in permits were issued during the month.

No permits were issued for any major construction. A permit to W. H. Fisher for an addition to a dwelling at 189 N. Milton for $3627 headed the list.

Other permits issued: Home Market (Harley Robertson), 119 S. Winchester, sign, $100; John S. Adams, 52 Christopher, garage, $800; Country Women's Club, 274 E. Campbell, remodel kitchen, $1700; H. E. Guilbert, 110 W. Latimer, remodel home, $1500; "The Virginian" (Bill Harrison), 20 S. San Jose-Los Gatos Road, sign, $545; J. Hartigan, 293 N. Esther, garage, $800; W. J. Yellow Is Safest

Research by Optometrists Show Why Red Is Not Safe for Hunters

Red is definitely not a safe color for hunters to wear!

Dr. Arthur C. Heinsen Jr. of San Jose, president of Santa Clara County Optometric Society and chairman of the California Optometric Association hunter vision program, made this emphatic statement in releasing results of the first color perception tests to be conducted in California.

As a joint research project by the State Department of Fish and Game, the National Rifle Association, and the California Optometric Association, tests were made on Army personnel at Fort Ord during July.

Although they are the first of a series yet to be completed, Dr. Heinsen concludes that "yellow proved undoubtedly the safest color for hunter wearing apparel."

Color Blind Hunters

Basic to this attack against man's traditional protective color is the fact that approximately 48,000 hunters in California—at least 1 in 8—are color blind or color deficient in some degree, and most of these are 'red-green" color blind.

For the color perception tests, two teams of ten men each were used; one group with normal color vision, one group color blind.

Tests were arranged on such factors as percentage of times a particular color was recognized correctly, and speed and accuracy in identifying a color.

Combined results of all tests rate yellow, orange, green, plaid (a multi-color panel), red and blue, in the order of decreasing safety.

Red was the "poorest" for the color blind group in all tests.

Since it is estimated that 92% of the population have normal color vision and 8% are color blind to some degree, the results of each test and the accumulative totals were "weighted" according to this ratio.

On this basis, yellow and orange were consistently at the top, as easily and correctly distinguishable and red was always the poorest or next to the poorest, Dr. Heinsen comments.

Fluorescent Tried

One rather astonishing result in relation to fluorescent colors was revealed during the tests. Not only were fluorescent color panels the most variable between the two groups, but they "gave trouble" under certain light conditions to those with normal color vision.

When the fluorescent colors were in direct sunlight, they showed up well, but in shadows under trees, or during early morning or twilight hours, they were difficult to distinguish, especially by those with normal color vision.

Plenty of Passing

San Jose State Spartans Present New Look on Gridiron This Fall

After less than two weeks of fall practice, it is evident that San Jose State will present a new look in Spartan football this season.

Almost entirely a split-T team for the past two seasons, the Spartan offense this year will feature split ends, flanking halfbacks and plenty of passing in a style reminiscent of the 1952 San Jose team which was ranked second in the nation in rushing, 15th in passing and fourth in total offense.

The change does not reflect any difference in theory for Coach Bob Branzan but rather is dictated by the personnel on hand. With at least two fine passers, the best set of ends since 1948 and 1949, and better line speed, Bronzan feels the current Golden Raider eleven can be most effective in the widelopen style.

Spartans Win Honors

Quarterback Marv McKean Halfback Harvel Pollard of San Jose State were given honorable mention on the preseason All American Academic squad announced this week in Dallas by Lester Jordan of SMU, originator of the squad which is composed of men who excell both on the field and in the classroom.

Reinhart Back

On the firing line Bronzan has Marv McKean, 6-1 transfer from East Contra Costa, and Bob Reinhart, 6-3 Army returnee who lettered at San Jose in 1953. The two boys, both ideal for the "dropback" type of passing utilized, head a cast of four able quarterbacks.

Letterman Mel Powell, rugged All-Coast candidate, Chuck Alexander and Pete Galloni, holdover Bob Dunivant, probably the most improved men on the squad, and transfers Jim Moore, Hal Boutte and Dick Templeton are in a spirited seven-way fight for starting posts at end.

In addition, several of the Sparton halfbacks, notably sophomore Art Powell, have shown themselves to be fine receivers. Powell, no relation to Mel, but a brother of Charley Powell of the San Francisco 49ers, has a great future, according to Bronzan. The Spartan coach says if Powell, (nicknamed "Stretch" by his teammates) continues to apply himself and improve, he'll be a greater receiver than Billy Wilson, former Spartan now AA-Pro with the 49ers, Elroy Hirsch or Dante Lavelli.

With Powell at right half, Bronzan has lettermen Walt Ackermann and Don Greco, both hard running and capable, and holdover Bill Montero. Harvel Pollard, determined transfer from Bakersfield, has a stranglehold on left half at the moment with holdover Joe Barrington and J. C. transfers Benny Guzman, Ken Matsuda, Jim Riley and Joe Valdez in the picture.

Problem at Fullback

Fullback has presented the major problems with injuries sidelining Claude Gilbert and George Cobbs, both potential first stringers. Neither will be ready for the Spartan's opener against Drake, September 22, and probably won't be available for the Washington State game the next week. Versatile Pat Hiram, a two-year letterman, is No. 1 at the moment, with transfers Van Parish (a Spartan hurdler last Spring) and Al Chapman and converted quarterback Tuck Halsey all showing good potential.

The Spartans will have a solid front at tackle, but injuries could present a depth problem. Veterans Jih Hughes, Austin Laramie, Nick Sanger, Al Serevino can do the job and Bronzan is looking for additional help from among holdovers Tom Ryan and Dick Olive and transfer Prentis Porter. Transfer Dick Volmer may be shifted from guard to bolster the tackle situation.

Charley Kaaihue, 1953 letterman who has played last two years at Fort Ord, figures to be one of the Coast's top guards. Letterman Hank Sekoch and transfers Herb Boyer, Stan Keith, George Barrera and Rudy Garcia provide good strength at this spot.

Letterman Jim Craig and Roland Logan, both improved, will do the job at center with converted fullback Ben Prather expected to be a strong factor by mid-season.

Area Kids to Tour Moffet Field

Campbell youngsters in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades will have a chance to visit Moffett Field on September 22, and see some of the latest U. S. Navy flying equipment, and even go through some of them, when the Navy opens its facilities to the youngsters, in observance of Kiwanis International Kids Day.

Campbell Kiwanis Club, together with Campbell Union School District, are sponsoring the annual event and interested youngsters may register with their teachers next Tuesday and Wednesday, when further details will be available as to the time and place of departure from Campbell. The school district will furnish busses to transport the group and the local Kiwanis Club will chaperone them.

Neal Royer, assistant district superintendent, is coordinator for the affair, assisted by Wayne Fontes, chairman of the Kiwanis boys and girls committee; Steve Goodman, chairman of Kiwanis committee on underprivileged children.

More than 1000 youngsters from the district attended the tour last year.

Army Engineers Exhibit Models Of Flood Control

Types of flood control works essential for the development of Santa Clara County are shown in the Army Corps of Engineers model exhibit at the County Fair.

Colonel John A. Graf, San Francisco District Engineer and a resident of Redwood City, whose office is charged with the planning, design, and construction of such projects, said that increasing local interest in flood control and river and harbor development had prompted him to enter such an exhibit in the Santa Clara County Fair.

Graf's office supervised channel clearance of streams in Santa Clara and Santa Cruz Counties following last winter's floods.

Four large models are at the forefront of the display, whose back walls and side rail feature photographs of last winters floods in Santa Clara and adjacent counties.

A working flood control model of two identical western rivers is the major exhibit. This model, complete with running water, shows two sections of land, one with and one without flood protection works, through which the rivers flow. A periodic increase in the volume of water floods one side, while the other, protected by a reservoir, levees and by-pass, remains low but dry.

zone, no provision is made for a fence enclosure and it is specified that the equipment must be kept inside. However, the Commission could issue a use permit, if it desired, allowing storage of equipment within an enclosure.

The investigation by Morser stemmed from the protest of A. C. Goulding, 451 San Jose-Los Gatos Road, who claimed that the operation was creating excessive noise and dirt. Goulding, who was present at the meeting, told the Commissioners that he owned a residence adjacent to G & P Equipment Rental Co. and that such a business next to hom he felt was detrimental to his property. He said he was located there before the city was incorporated and the zone made a manufacturing one. The Planners in agreeing that there was no violation felt that regulating the noise and dirt was out of their province.

Issues Citation

Morser also reported to the Commission that he had cited Richard Ziegler during the week for a zone violation at the used car lot at Winchester and Rincon Ave. He said that Ziegler had been given 10 days in which to put in paving and a wall and hedge at the location.

Nestor Barrett, planning consultant, also told the Planners that he felt everything would be ironed out in another zone violation case that of the fence on the property of Charles Quinn at the corner of Bucknall Road and Virginia Ave.

Barrett also told the Commission that he had started work at the request of the City Council on the establishment of a new type of industrial zone that would be suitable for such firms as the Cascade Research, Inc. which plans to build on property now south of the City but which is to become a part of Campbell in the near future.

Church School Approved

The Planners also granted the Seventh Day Adventist Church a use permit to build a one-room school at 531 W. Rincon Ave. with a five-year time limit. The Rev Andrew Dahl, pastor, reported that the sturcture would only be temporary (the church already maintains a school there) until a permanent building was completed. The church also agreed upon the suggestion of Morser to paint the structure to hide the metallic finish.

The Commission also approved commercial zoning for property recently annexed to the city located at Union and Campbell avenues owned by Mr. and Mrs. Tobia Saliccia. Robert Vatuone, of the University of Santa Clara Law School, represented the Saliccias in their request.

Senator Endorses Proposition No. 2

Proposition No. 2, which would authorize a $100,000,000 bond issue to provide State money for loans and grants to school districts, has received the endorsement of State Senator John F. "Jack" Thompson.

Part of the loans and grants would be used for purchasing and improving school sites, purchasing furniture and equipment for schools, and planning and constructing, reconstructing, repairing, altering, and making additions to, school buildings. The second type of loans and grants would be for assistance in providing necessary housing and equipment for the education of physically handicapped minors and mentally retarded minors.

In annoucing his support, Senator Thompson made the following statement:

SMILING COUPLE LEAVES CHURCH . . . Walking down the aisle following their wedding ceremony, are Mr. and Mrs. A. Nelson Smith whose marriage was solemnized in the First Methodist Church in Campbbell. The Rev. Sargent Wright was celebrant for the ceremony which was held on the afternoon of August 25. The bride is the former Miss Saundra Lederman.—Collins Studio Photo.

Smith-Lederman Nuptials Held in Methodist Church

When Miss Sandra Lederman and A. Nelson Smith exchanged vows in the First Methodist Church here recently, the ceremony was held in a setting of elaborate floral decorations. The Rev. Sargent Wright officiated at the ceremony which was partially written by the groom.

The floral archway of white gladioli and delphinium in the center of the church, was surrounded by tall floor baskets of white chrysanthemums, flanked by cathedral candelabra. Palms and ferns formed the background for the floral arrangements. The kneeling bench in the center of the archway was outlined with garlands of gardenias, and the chancel was also garlanded with gardenias and Stephanotis. White standards holding waterfall bouquets of white carnations and tulle, tied with white satin ribbon, marked the aisles.

"Because", "Wedding Prayer" and "Lord's Prayer", nuptial music, was heard with Helen Kimzey as vocalist, accompanied by Pat McClenahan at the organ.

When she walked down the aisle on the arm of her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over bridal satin, designed with a fitted bodice and tapered long sleeves. The illusion neckline was accented by a tiny Peter Pan lace collar, and the bouffant nylon tulle skirt featured a lace peplum. The coronet in her hair held her shoulder length veil. Her waterfall bouquet was made up of white orchids,, lilies of the valley and Cattleya orchids, on a background of tulle, tied with white satin.

The bride's attendants wore similarly designed princess style gowns of shilo lace over taffeta, fashioned with full skirts, scoop necklines and three-quarter length sleeves, piped wth satin. They all wore matching velvet hats, trimmed in lace.

[illegible] Penne McClenahan, maid of honor wore a pink-hued gown, and carried a cascade bouquet of Bettertime roses tied with French maline and satin ribbon to match her gown. Miss Bettey Lederman, sister of the bride, Miss Connie Evans and Mrs. Victor C. Heath, bridesmaids, wore aqua-colored gowns and carried cascade bouquets of pink briarcliff roses and Franch maline, tied with satin ribbon to match their gowns.

Herbert Brown, uncle of the bride, attended the groom as best man, while ushers were Bob Paradis, Tom Mitchell and Lloyd Brown, another uncle of the bride.

When the bride's mother received the more than 200 guests in the Fireside Room of the church, she was attired in a dress of pink lace with matching pink, lace-trimmed hat and pink accessories. A corsage of pink cymbiddium orchids completed her costume.

The groom's mother, who came from San Angelo, Texas, for the wedding, wore a dress of light blue lace, accented with white accessories. A corsage of Cattleya orchids was pinned at her shoulder.

The reception table was centered with a tree of orchids, based with gardenias and tuberous begonia blooms. At the bride's table, the four-tiered cake was surrounded by glittered gardenias, white delphinium and tuberous begonia blooms.

The wedding was a family reunion for Mrs. Lederman, when her five brothers and one sister and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lewis Brown gathered together for the first time in 20 years. Only one brother was absent.

Out-of-town relatives of the bride attending the wedding were: Mrs. Olene Pederson, Merced; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Brown and family of Dallas, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Morley of Menlo Park; Lloyd Brown of El Paso, Texas; Mrs. Rosa Riddle and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Riddle of Eugene, Oregon; Mrs. Freida Lederman, grandmother of the bride, from Dallas, Texas; Mrs. F. Hall Brown and daughter, Judy, also of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Orville Brown of San Mateo, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown of Santa Rosa.

When the justwed couple left for their honeymoon to Carmel and the Monterey Peninsula, the new Mrs. Smith wore an avocado green wool sheath with matching jacket with tangerine shoes and bag and a bronze orchid corsage.

The new Mrs. Smith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Lederman of San Jose. She is a graduate of San Angelo High School in San Angelo, Texas, and a San Jose State College graduate, where she received her teaching credentials. She will teach fifth and sixth grades in the fall in the Berkeley public schools.

The groom is a graduate of McMurray College, Abilene, Texas, where he was affiliated with Ko Sari fraternity and active in student government. He plans to enroll at Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley as a ministerial student.

The couple will make their home in Berkeley.

Mastropietro-Baker Vows Solemnized In St. Lucy's Church Here August 25

A double ring ceremony on the afternoon of August 25 in St. Lucy's Church in Campbell, united Miss Carol Ann Baker and Vincent Joseph Mastropietro, Jr., with The Rev. Denis Kennelly officiating.

The bride designed her own wedding gown, assisted by her grandmother, Mrs. M. Moinett. The gown of white embroidered lace over ivory satin was fashioned in the princess style with long, tapered sleeves and scoop neckline. The bouffant skirt swept into a chapel train. Her sweetheart crown was edged with seed pearls and held her fingertip-length veil. Her shower bouquet was made up of three dozen white carnations, centered with purple orchids. She was given in marriage by her father, John W. Baker, Jr.

Miss Beverly Benson was her maid of honor, attired in a waltz length gown of pink embroidered organdy with a matching picture hat, carrying a French bouquet of pink carnations.

The bride's sister, Lynn, was her junior bridesmaid. Her yellow gown was identical to that of the maid of honor and with it she carried a French bouquet of yellow carnations. Rita Mastropietro, sister of the groom, another bridesmaid, was gowned in blue, in the same style as the other attendants. Her French bouquet was of blue carnations.

Richard Luhring performed duties of best man and ushers were: Dick Mastropietro, Dick Alfano, Wally Koontz and Eddy Snow.

Mrs. J. W. Baker, Jr., mother of the bride, chose a flowered silk afternoon dress for her daughter's wedding. With it she wore white accessories and a purple orchid corsage.

The groom's mother, Mrs. V. J. Mastropietro, Sr., was attired in a black and white lace sheath. White accessories and a purple orchid corsage, completed her costume.

Following the ceremony, more than 250 friends and relatives of the couple attended the reception at the History Club in Los Gatos. White stock and daisies decorated the reception setting. The three-tiered wedding cake was circled at the base with Shasta daisy blooms and on each side were three white candles in graduated heights, footed with masses of white Shasta daisy blooms. The bride's mother fashioned the gown for the miniature bride and groom atop the cake, from the same material and in the same design as the bride's gown.

Following the reception, the newly weds left for a honeymoon trip to Washington and along the Oregon coast. For her going-away outfit, the new Mrs. Mastropietro chose a green sheath with matching cape and white accessories. The purple orchid corsage from her wedding bouquet was pinned at her shoulder.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Baker, Jr., of 439 April Way, in Campbell, the bride is a Campbell Union High School graduate. She is a member of Shanton's Service Club and Jobs Daughters, Bethel No. 233, of Santa Clara. She has two sisters, Mrs. William Lynch and Miss Lynn Baker.

White mums and stock banked the altar of the First Methodist Church in San Jose on September 1st, when Miss Shirley Verna Seymour changed her name to Mrs. Robert Warren Lee. Dr. Joyce W. GARDEN CLUB HAS DISPLAY AT FAIR

Although the Campbell Garden Club has been active through the summer, this week finds members busily taking part in one of their main annual events, displaying their exhibits at the County Fair.

"California", a typical old California garden, is the theme of the club's Fair display, which all members had a hand in preparing. Mrs. Monica Parr entered a floral arrangement, and several of the members entered individual arrangements in their own names. Mrs. Roy Sindel and Mrs. Charles M. White are the club's County Fair co-chairmen.

Campbell Garden Club, along with several other area garden clubs, donated a Kwanzan cherry tree to the Fair Grounds.

When the club held their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. John Prolo last week, over 45 members and guests attended to hear Ed Carman, the club's garden consultant, discuss winter bulbs and blooms, as well as seasonal jobs to provide "Winter Color" in their gardens. He was assisted by Mrs. Charles Smith, flower arrangement teacher.

Mrs. Fred Smith presided at last week's meeting when plans were discussed for the club's attendance at the Oakland Flower Show on September 25. Time and place of departure by bus from Campbell will be announced later.

The meeting was concluded with refreshments served by Mrs. John Prolo, hostess for the day.

No Place for Gossip

One of the toughest jobs with which a weekly newspaper has to contend is the gleaning of facts from mere rumor.

There are always plenty of rumors running around loose in a community such as Campbell, but to tie them down to unadulterated facts often presents an insurmountable task. Too often the rumors end up as mere myths.

Rumors often are the off shoot of over the back-fence gossip and have no more basis than idle neighborhood chatter.

But this same chit-chat can be embroidered in the retelling to such an extent that the gossip becomes a fact in the mind of the person doing the telling.

And that's where the community newspaper must then do the job of separating fact from fiction.

If a newspaper adheres to its appointed task of factual reporting, the problem does not become too acute.

When a paper descends into the depths of make-believe, i.e., half-truths or gossip, people tend to lose faith in their paper. Integrity, in our opinion, is the most valued asset a newspaper can have. A newspaper cannot have integrity, however, if it is careless with its facts.

We welcome controversies and the opinions of our readers on both sides of any issue. That makes for a healthy situation in our book and we will continue to report both sides.

But there is no place in our columns for vicious gossip.

Paving the Way

Studies are being made here at the present time for the eventual establishment in Campbell of a special type of industrial zone, keyed particularly for Cascade Research, Inc., and other firms of a like nature.

Cascade Research, now located in Los Gatos, has purchased acreage on the southern tip of Campbell, where it will build a new modern plant. When the firm elected to come into Campbell, company officers suggested that some thought be given by the City as to the possibility of assuring the company protection in the type of zoning that the area would have.

The company is highly technical in scope. It is concerned with the making of sensitive electronic instruments and it is important that industries surrounding it are of a type that will not affect the sensitivity of its operation.

We commend the City Council for recognizing the importance of this type of business for Campbell and taking steps to assure the protection that is needed by the establishment of a new type of industrial zone.

Nestor Barrett, city planning consultant, has already started a study of the situation. He reports that it is a relatively new field for city planners, but that he is certain that a proper zone can be established that would limit industries in the amount of noise and vibration and other factors that are important to the industry.

We feel that the proper type of zoning in effect. and with Cascade Research leading the way, that many other similar operations would look with favor upon locating in Campbell.

The entire electronics industry is in the throes of a virtual boom. Almost all the firms in that field are expanding, and it is important that they get the needed protection wherever they go.

By proper zoning, Campbell can do much to pave the way for them to locate here.

Elusive License - Evaders

On good authority we have learned that many firms and individuals from outside the city are doing business within the city limits without bothering to take out city licenses.

Under the city ordinance, these firms are required to have business licenses, but many simply ignore the law.

City employees charged with the enforcement of the business license ordinance do their best to collect from these elusive characters, but they are limited both in numbers and time.

We would like to see a more severe crackdown on these license-evaders, for it is not fair to those who consicentiously shell out good dough for their licenses to have others get by without paying.

OUT on the LIMB

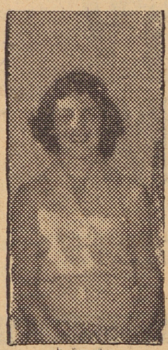
George Vierhus

We certainly goofed last week when we published the picture of the kids on our block who were getting ready for school. If you recall, there were 19 youngsters in the picture we ran on the front page all living within the one block between Rincon Ave. and Ricky Court in the Weschester Park area.

Linda Locke, a sophomore at Campbell High and daughter of Chief of Police and Mrs. Bob Locke, our next door neighbor, was the coordinator for the job. It was she who lined up the kids for us.



Linda

We carefully checked the names from left to right as we were taking the pictures. But when we ran the spread in the paper last week one name was missing from the identifications.

You can guess who it was. That's right. It was Linda.

We certainly had a red face about our boo-boo and we have been apologizing all over the place since.

In order to make things half-way right and to assure all concerned that it was not intentional, we are running Linda's picture right smack-dab in this column this week.

—o—

In this issue we are publishing a letter from Judge John D. Blaine concerning the controversial Roosevelt Redwood.

As you probably know by now, the current controversy over the tree's future stems from the fact that sooner or later Winchester Road must be widened and the tree that has been a landmark for more than 50 years will probably have to give way to progress.

A number of the more sentimental residents (your editor included) feel that, if at all possible, the tree should be saved. Leading the battle to save the tree has been Mrs. Alice Joy Keith, who was present when the tree was planted by the energetic Teddy Roosevelt in 1903. Mrs. Keith throughout the years has watched the tree grow and grow.

From time to time a rumor has gone the rounds that the Rossevelt Redwood that was planted by President Theodore Roosevelt died and another was replanted in its place.

Mrs. Keith claims that the rumor was baseless. She saw the tree planted and she saw it grow. She thinks that the rumor started over another tree, the so-called Smith Tree which is now located in the patio of the What Not Shop but originally was planted on the high school grounds. She knows all about the death of the Smith Tree which was planted in the memory of Principal James Frederick Smith some 10 years after Teddy visited the town. This tree did die and Mrs. Keith admits to the replanting of another in its place with her own hands in the still of the night.

But another witness at the original planting now claims that the Roosevelt Redwood died. Last week Mrs. Lucia Whitney told The Press through her niece that the Roosevelt Redwood died and the trustees of the school planted another in its place.

Mrs. Keith recalls that Teddy in his forceful style made a big production out of the planting ceremony. Mrs. Whitney says otherwise. She thinks that Mr. Roosevelt tossed only three shovelfuls of dirt on the tree and the trustees had to finish the job.

—o—

Judge Blaine in his letter sides with Mrs. Keith. He bases his opinion as an ex-judge on the difference between rumor and real evidence.

"Mrs. Keith," he writes, "has provided us with real evidence that the Smith tree died, the best evidence possible. She dug up the dead tree and planted a live one. Let somebody dig up somebody who had actually had to do with the replacing of the Roosevelt tree".

The defense rests. (That is until we hear moreabout it.)

—o—

We know this is old stuff now but we have just run across some notes we jotted down at the late Republican convention in San Francisco. As usual they are difficult to read because they are pretty cold but we better use 'em up, if posterity is going to benefit.

On one side of us in the press gallery was the daughter of the publisher of the Artesia News. She was the wife of a young Republican attorney and was an ardent Nixon booster. When Young Republicans came through the press gallery some time before the spontaneous Dick Nixon demonstration and passed out Nixon banners some of the people in the section turned them down. But not this gal next to me. She was right among 'em when the demonstration for Dick took place.

On our other side was the wife of the publisher of the paper in Silver Springs, Idaho. She told us that she, her husband and son drove straight through from Idaho when they got their paper ready that week. They only had one ticket and were taking turns sharing it. The mother watched proceedings for a while and then got her ticket to her son so he could also see the show. Fortunately she was able to stay in the joint after her son took the seat next to us.

We felt a wee bit guilty about the fact that we had only to travel a paltry 50 miles to attend the confab especially after we learned how enthusiastic our two neighbors were about the whole affair.

We have other notes on the convention but we shall pass them up at this time.

—o—

Speaking of politics, however, we chuckled when Mayor John Chargin, one of the towns most ardent Democrats, told us the Santa Clara County Democratic County Council met this week in the Herbert Hoover Junior High School in San Jose.

Tempus fugit.

Industries Take Lead in Fight For Smog Control

Industry has taken the lead in voluntary measures to reduce air pollution and is expected to give active support to the newly-established Bay Area control program.

This assurance was made recently by a leading industry spokesman before a meeting in Berkeley of the Northern California section of the American Industrial Hygiene Association.

Ivan L. Johnson, president of Pacific Steel Casting Co. of Berkeley, told of industry's problems in air pollution as part of an air pollution symposium presented by the hygiene group at University of California. Johnson is chairman of a 20-man advisory council serving the new Bay Area Air Pollution Control District which becomes operative on October 1.

He emphasized the importance of an effective public relations program within the six-county district to properly inform people of their responsibilities in air pollution control.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(Views, opinion etc. express- in this column do not necessarily reflect those of this newspaper. This column is by and for our readers.)

ABOUT THAT TREE

Editor, The Press
Dear Sir:

About the Roosevelt tree there is an incident that perhaps has not been recently retold.

In preparation for the Roosevelt pary a group of prominent citizens had erected a platform in the center of town for Roosevelt to stand on while making his Campbell speech. A considerable audience was gathered there to hear. But Roosevelt supposed his speech made at the tree planting was the Campbell speech. Hence he and his party rode through on their horses without stopping.

The disappointment of the audience at the platform was of course considerable. And there was some heat of indignation. Eventually Roosevelt heard of the matter and wrote a letter of apology.

Since some member of my own family was connected with the Campbell paper at this time (my brother-in-low E. C. Hurlbert) I was somewhat on the inside. I believe the leader of the party at the platform was C. H. Whitman, prominent in local affairs and a hardware dealer. Old citizens will remember him well.

In regard to the tree that died, Mrs. Keith has already told a story in The Press of the death of a tree planted in memory of James Frederick Smith, first principal of Campbell Union School, who led the party at the tree planting by Roosevelt. The Smith tree, a pine, died and was replanted by Mrs. Keith herself. The tree she planted now towers high back of The What Not Shop, for all to see, though probably few actually notice it. Both trees were of course originally near the front of the old high school grounds.

The Smith tree was planted about 1913, or 10 years after the Roosevelt tree, so I judge from the plaque that was at its foot and is now next to the fence on the east side of the high school tennis courts. Although the Smith tree is in plain sight, as I have said, I for one never heard of this tree until Mrs. Keith told its story in The Press. I think it would be very easy for anybody to confuse the history of these two trees, the Roosevelt and the Smith.

So far as personal opinions go, I set some value on my own. Six children of mine attended our high school in its early years. I knew all its first principals and all its trustees. I was often on its grounds at its games and playing tennis on its courts. I was living in Campbell when the Roosevelt tree was planted and there was a rare week when I did not see it. I just can't imagine it dying and my not knowin about it.

Also as an ex-judge I feel that rumor is one thing and real evidence quite another. Mrs. Keith has provided us with real evidence that the Smith tree died, the best evidence possible. She dug up the dead tree and planted a live one. Let somebody dig up somebody who actually had to do with the replanting of the Roosevelt tree.

This issue is important in view of the trouble being taken to preserve the tree and the large number of interested citizens. I hope this letter will help to suggest what real evidence is like. It is more than rumor. It is something that would stand in court. Mrs. Keith's evidence would.

CRANES . . . plus carelessness around power lines . . . cause fatalities in California every year. An operator swings his crane boom. He fails to LOOK UP! The boom touches an overhead electric line. His death . . . or the death of a fellow workman on the ground . . . can result. So never operate a crane near a power line. California law requires employers to keep crews and equipment away from power lines. GOODWILL SPONSORS DOLL-DRESSING FETE

Ready for distribution to hundreds of women throughout Santa Clara County are more than a thousand dolls that need to be dressed in the annual pre-Christmas project sponsored by Goodwill Industries.

Announcement of plans for the doll dressing was made this week by Mrs. Leonard Wade Jr., of San Jose, and Mrs. Leonard Semas of Santa Clara. The two women are co-chairmen for the program.

The doll dressing will be carried on in a manner similar to last year when women from all parts of the county dressed dolls and entered them in an award contest, the chairman said.

A panel of judges will be selected and announced in the near future, they explained. The judges will award ribbons and certificates for the dolls most outstanding in several categories.

The Kiwanis family picnic at the Campbell High School Field last week earned many compliments for program chairman, J. R. Morgan, and a good time for the Kiwanians and their families.

The Robert Nelson family is back from a 15 day camping trip to Yosemite. Mabel, Gladys Fraasch, and the children, Carolyn, Bobbie, and Jon Roger stayed in Camp 15 the whole time, while Bob got up for the week ends. Mabel got a spider bite the last day there, but it is almost well now.

Carolyn took the mule-back trip to Half Dome. Last year she climbed it, but this year the family decided she was big enough to ride a mule.

Mrs. Nelson reports less trouble with bears this year than last.

The Weshope All-Church Bazaar is Saturday. The ladies of the Church promise a good time to all who attend. There will be a wide selection of articles on sale. Do your Christmas shopping early.

SAN TOMAS SUMMARY

Isabelle Pechin
FR 8-8040

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Cooper, Miss June Epperson, who has graduated from high school, and little David, who has not yet started school, are driving to Washington, Pa., to visit Mr. Cooper's parents.

The San Tomas Improvement Club will hold its September meeting tonight at 8:00 in the Fred Smith Rumpus Room. Howard Greer will show the pictures he took on his recent desert trip. He will also have rock specimens to show. The public is welcome.

The San Tomas lighing district is complete, and the Improvement Club is looking for new fields to conquer.

The San Tomas Baptist Church still finds itself with its Sunday School rooms on one side of the as-yet-incomplete Lovell Ave. bridge, and its sanctuary on the other. The County engineer's office originally expected that its completion would be a matter of only a few days, but there has been considerable delay.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Blohm spent the week end trout fishing at Silver Lake above Jackson.

Polio Incidence In County Runs Higher Than 1955

IN — POLIO INCIDENCE— 23

"In Santa Clara County the current polio incidence is running considerably higher than during any comparative period in 1955," Joseph A. Chargin, Jr. Chairman, Santa Clara County, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, reported this week.

Despite the development of a successful preventive against paralytic polio, 51 polio cases have been reported to date in Santa Clara County, whereas a total of 64 cases were reported during the entire year of 1955. In the State of California the number of cases reported to date is greater than those reported as of the same period in 1955:

In many other counties and states, which boast a higher percentage of vaccinated children and young adults, the current rate of polio cases is considerably less than in 1955," Chargin said. Every indication leads local Polio Foundation leaders to strongly stress the need for a greatly accelerated rate of vaccination, particularly among teen-gers, young adults and expectant monthers.

A local testimonial to the safety and effectivenes of the Salk vaccine was forcefully indicated by Chargin when he stated that in Santa Clara County not one case of paralytic polio has been reported among those children and young adults having received the polio vaccine.

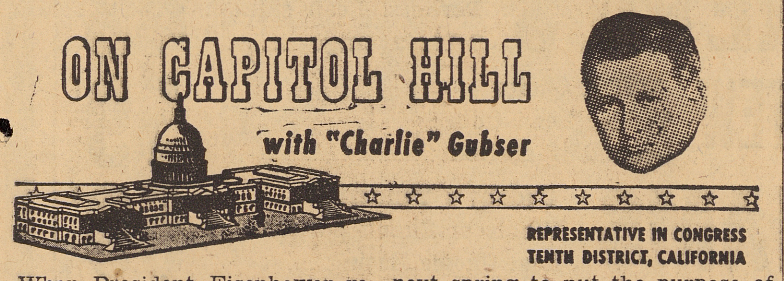
"Our vaccine education committee, under the capable leadership of Mrs. Edna Graun, has already instituted plans to urge teen-age and young adult groups to immediately get their polio vaccine," Chargin stated. All children through age 19 are elegible for free vaccine at clinics operated by the Health Department, whereas adults as well as children may obtain vaccine by contacting your private physician.

Heart Board Names San Jose Resident

Fred J. Fletcher, San Jose automobile dealer and civic leader, has been named a member of the executive committee of the California Heart Association, according to word received this week from Dr. George K. Wever of Stockton, state association president.

Fletcher, past chairman of the Santa Clara County Heart Association board of directors and during the past year a member of the state board, has been an active worker in the fight against heart disease both locally and state-wide for the past six years.

The state executive committee is composed of representatives of 27 affiliates of the California Heart Association among which is the Santa Clara County unit.



ON CAPITOL HILL

with "Charlie" Gubser

REPRESENTATIVE IN CONGRESS
TENTH DISTRICT, CALIFORNIA

When President Eisenhower recently affixed his signature to a bill designated H. R. 5881, the most important single measure passed by the 84th Congress became Law. Commonly referred to as the "Small Irrigation Projects Bill", this measure may well make it possible to carry out a lot of water conservation projects in our area which otherwise may have been impossible, and it will do so at a saving of tremendous amounts to our already heavily taxed citizens.

Basically, the Small Irrigation Projects Bill will provide for local projects up to $5,000,000 the same kind of interest-free federal money heretofore reserved for federal reclamation projects. After review by the State, the project applications are to be submitted to the Secretary of the Interior who, upon approval, may then negotiate a contract with the district planning the project.

The legislative road the bill had to travel before becoming public law was rocky. Originally passed by the House in 1955, it lay in Senate Committee until early 1956, and then was amended so heavily that a conference committee took several months until the difference could be ironed out. Finally the compromise version reached the President, but with a clause which provided for re-consideration of each propect by committees of the House and Senate. This almost led to a veto, because the President rightly considered this a violation of the principle that only the Congress could make laws, and only the executive could carry them out.

In view of the late date (the bill passed only a few days before adjournment of Congress) I made a personal appeal to the White House to approve the measure. I argued that no applications could reach the Executive prior to convention of a new Congress, anyway, and that the objectionable passages could be mended in time next spring to put the purpose of the bill into operation. Naturally, I was pleased to find that this line of argument was precisely what the President stated in his message accompanying the signed bill. What pleased me more was a letter from the White House, commending me for my efforts to get the bill passed in Congress and signed into law.

PLANNING ON PLANTING?

GARDENER'S CHECK LIST

By The California Association of Nurserymen

Reminders

1. September is an ideal month for lawn planting.
2. Azaleas and Rhododendrons can be give ntheir fall feeding, if needed.
3. If ants are a problem, spray the whole ground with Chlordane or Dieldrin.
4. Anemone, Ranunculas and Freesia bulbs can be planted now.
5. Most lawns will benefit by a pre-winter application of fertilizer.

Fast growth in Fall

Because the soil is still warm from summer, all types of trees and plants planted now will grow more quickly than those planted bareroot in midwinter. Now is an excellent time for setting in fruit and shade trees, roses, native shrubs and flowers.

Nurseries throughout the state are now stocking container-grown shade trees, fruit trees and roses—all of which would be bareroot subjects during the winter months. These plants can be set root ball and all into the warm earth now. In a much shorter time than required by the bareroot plant, the container-grown plant will be established in your garden. The added benefit of warm planting soil will hasten growth and establish the plant for the coming winter months.

Shade and fruit trees available now in containers include many of the favorite varieties and species. For instance, for fall color changes in your own garden plant the Chinese Pistache (Pistacia chinensis), Sweet Gum (Liquidamber Styraciflua) or Maidenhair Tree (Ginkgo biloba). Deep shade for a small yard is well provided by the Kafir Plum (Harpephyllum caffrum) and the Brazilian Pepper (Schinus-terebinthifolius).

Delicious table fruit can be easily grown in a home garden. Depending on your local climate, choose an evergreen fruit tree like the orange, lemon, grapefruit, avocado or white sapote or from the deciduous fruit group—persimmon, plum, pomegranate or crabapple. These trees and all their fruiting relatives can be obtained in containers ready for immediate planting.

The California native plant group is vast, and deserves thorough exploration by the enthusiastic gardener. Manzanita (Arctostaphylos), the Salt Bush (Atriplex lentiformis) and the Bush Anemone (Carpenteria californica) together illustrate the variety of types of native plants to be found in nurseries. The Manzanita is evergreen, grows from three to ten feet high, has attractive foliage, flowers and sometimes berries; also evergreen the Bush Anemone grows from three to seven feet high with dark green leaves and white anemone-like flowers. Salt Bush is deciduous and ideally suited for desert and interior valley situations. Its foliage is very gray; the bush itself is densely branched and sometimes spiny. With such a structure it is more utilitarian (fine for windbreaks or hedges) than decorative.

For Fall Color

Fairy Primrose is the everyday name given to the Primula malacoides for it best describes this annual's dainty size and soft pastel colored flowers. Planted now, seedlings of the Fairy Primrose will bring welcome colors into your fall and winter garden.

There are many attractive ways to plant Fairy Primroses. The California Association of Nurserymen suggest cultivating a carpet effect of many plants, in blending colors perhaps, under high-branching trees. Fairy Primroses are attractive mixers in a bulb bed and they make handsome container subjects—in pots, window boxes or planters. If the soil in your garden bed does not drain well, build a raised bed and set Fairy Primroses into it. In evergreen Fern beds, this annual adds a lovely contrast of flower form and color to the all-foliage setting.

Named varieties of Fairy Primroses include Glory of Riverside, rose-pink in hue; Lavender New Baby, Lilac Beauty and Red New Baby, whose colors are indicated by their names.

For healthy, attractive plants, set your Fairy Primroses in either part sun or shade (part shade usually better) in well-drained soil. Enrich the soil with leaf mould and rotted manure and water generously.

The after-bloom of Fairy Primroses is apt to be unattractive. One way to avoid this is to plant your Primroses in pots, sink them into the ground for enjoyment of their bloom and then remove them.

Colorful Cotoneaster

A shrub worthy of every California gardener's friendship is the Cotoneaster. This low-to-tall growing evergreen or deciduous shrub has many attractively berried and handsomely foliaged varieties and species in its family.

Unfortunately, the Cotoneaster has not always been displayed to its best advantage—often being grown in close, cramped quarters which prevent its natural graceful, curving habit of growth. The Cotoneaster, however, offers many landscaping possibilities.

As a ground cover or a trailer over a wall or bank, in tub or in a rocky spot, the many species of low growing Cotoneasters perform wonderfully. The well-known Cotoneaster Dammeri or Bearberry Cotoneaster forms a flat, evergreen mat of rooting branches with bright, glossy foliage, white flowers and scarlet berries. It seldom grows higher than six inches. The evergreen Necklace Cotoneaster (C. decora) grows with arching branches to three feet, accented by white flowers and clear red fruits.

Plant masses of winter color to look down upon the Rock Cotoneaster (C. horizontalis). It spreads wide and forms mounds to three feet. Although it's deciduous in cold winter areas, the scarlet berries appear in mass to hide the leafless branches.

Higher growth is achieved by the Cotoneaster Parneyi—six feet tall, eight feet across in a graceful, arching manner. Clusters of pink flowers bloom against dark evergreen foliage, followed by brilliant red berries from October to December.

The Silverleaf Cotoneaster (C. pannosa) bears coral colored fruits that contrast attractively with the silvery-gray foliage and white flowers.

The difference of time between the west and east extremes of Alaska—3 hours, 50 minutes—is greater than that between New York and San Francisco.

For the 1915 Panama Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, Oregon installed a single fir log as a flag pole; it was 234 feet high.
